Licensed Contractor
.....It's the Law!

BULLETIN: 11-05 May 16, 2011

May I Borrow Your License?

Absolutely not! Consumers and project owners may often receive prices, quotes, or promises that sound too good to be true. Unlicensed activities take place all the time whereby unqualified and unlicensed contractors ask a licensed friend or relative to pull a permit for them so that they can do the work. A licensed contractor pulling a permit and allowing an unlicensed contractor to do the work is a severe violation of the Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors. A licensed contractor found guilty of this violation may face a financial penalty as well as the possibility of license revocation. The unlicensed contractor can face penalties as severe 10% of the value of the project.

LSLBC conducts Administrative Hearings every month for allegations and complaints for fraudulent and unlicensed activities. Permit and inspection offices are the first line of defense of our laws.

The licensed contractors must handle the license responsibly for the right to maintain it. LSLBC promotes professionalism in the construction industry and service for the citizens of Louisiana.

“Properly licensed and qualified contractors...It's the Law!”
