Michael McDuff, executive director of the Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors (LSLBC), was named president of the National Association of State Contractors Licensing Agencies (NASCLA) at their 54th annual conference held in Minneapolis, Minnesota earlier this month.

NASCLA is comprised of agencies from states that have enacted laws to regulate the business of contracting.

Since 1985, McDuff has worked in various positions with the construction industry in Louisiana including serving as the executive director of Associated Builders and Contractors of Louisiana and the Baton Rouge Growth Coalition that was comprised of architects, builders, engineers, and real estate developers. He was appointed by the governor in 2008 to serve as the executive director of the Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors (LSLBC).

McDuff has served on the NASCLA Board of Directors since 2009. He currently serves as chair of the NASCLA Program Committee also is a member of the Contractors Committee, Fiscal Policy & Procedures Committee, and Resources Committee.

“I am very honored to serve as NASCLA president. This organization serves many vital roles, but of utmost importance, NASCLA promotes the protection of the general public and the integrity of the construction industry through the licensing of contractors, something we oversee locally at the Louisiana State Licensing Board for Contractors.”

NASCLA’s twenty-three (23) board members serve one-year terms from September to September, commencing at the association’s annual conference each fall.
